Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-44 and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Re claim 1, line 5: The claim recites "the semiconductor chip of 1", which is unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 1, lines 9-14: The claim recites "the interface controller has a plurality of interface control modes, as the interface control mode which controls an external-interface action, and a memory interface action to the memory, and controls the external-interface action and the memory interface action by a control mode according to an instruction from an outside", which unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 1, line 14: The claim recites "an outside", which is unclear to the examiner. Should it be "an outside source" or "an outside terminal"?

Re claim 1, lines 15-18: The claim recite "external connection terminals have an individual terminal individualized for every interface control mode, and a common terminal communalized for every interface control modes of a plurality of", which is unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 2, lines 3-5: The claim recite "the multifunction card device has further a security controller which included a semiconductor chip a same as that of the interface controller, or another", which is unclear to the examiner.

Claim 16 recites the limitation "the applied ferrite plate" in lines 3-4; and "the stuck ferrite film" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Re claim 28, line 4-6: The claim recites "at least two level difference parts stopped by a socket are formed in a thickness direction of the package", which is unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 29, line 2: The claim recites "the two level difference parts", which is unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 31, line 5: The claim recites "a level difference part of a package", which is unclear to the examiner.

Claim 35 recites the limitation "the second external terminals" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Re claim 36, line 11: The claim recites "an outside", which is unclear to the examiner. Should it be "an outside source" or "an outside terminal"?

Re claim 36, line 15: The claim recites "external connection terminals have an individual terminal individualized for every interface control mode, and a common terminal communalized for every interface control modes of a plurality of", which is unclear to the examiner.

Re claim 37, line 13: The claim recites "an outside", which is unclear to the examiner. Should it be "an outside source" or "an outside terminal"?

Re claim 39, line 13: The claim recites "an outside", which is unclear to the examiner. Should it be "an outside source" or "an outside terminal"?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nishizawa et al (US 2001/0009505 A1), cited by the applicants.

Re claim 1: Nishizawa et al teaches a card device including:

a plurality of semiconductor chips mounted over a wiring substrate over which an external connection terminal (2) is formed, wherein a first semiconductor chip includes an interface controller (5) connected to the external connection (2) terminal, and a second semiconductor chip includes a memory (4) connected to the interface controller (5);

the interface controller (5) has a plurality of interface control modes, wherein the interface control mode controls an external interface action and a memory interface action by a control mode according to an instruction from an outside source;

external connection terminals (2) having an individual terminal including a data terminal; and a common terminal including a clock input terminal, a power supply terminal, and an earthing terminal. (See paragraphs 0104-0111)

Re claim 36: Nishizawa et al teaches a card device including:

an external connection terminal (2); a controller (5) connected to the external connection terminal (2); and a memory (4) connected to the controller (5), over a wiring substrate;

wherein the controller (5) has a plurality of interface control modes, wherein the interface control mode controls an external interface action and a memory interface action by a control mode according to an instruction from an outside source;

external connection terminals (2) having an individual terminal including a data terminal; and a common terminal including a clock input terminal, a power supply terminal, and an earthing terminal. (See paragraphs 0104-0111)

Remarks

Since the claims are presented with numerous errors, the examiner conducted a search on the claimed invention as best understood by the examiner.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Fukuzumi (US 5,758,121); Hirota et al (US 6,606,707)
